Forecast for Monday 07 Jun 2021

Weather: On the cloudy side, particulalrly first thing in the west, with this cloud dispersing during the first part of the morning. Perhaps brightest during the afternoon, with some hazy sunny spells. Any cloud soon fading during the evening leaving largely clear skies across Snowdonia.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 60% early morning rising to 80% by midday.

Visibility: Poor to moderate initially with early morning mist and cloud banks near windward slopes, this soon lifting and clearing. Visibilities becoming very good from mid-morning with distant hills and mountains visible from summits. However with a risk of the odd shower during the afternoon sudden deteriorations are possible.
